Items for the next issue should reach the Editor by 6th September

The Editor writes:

I hope that you are all enjoying the summer, although the weather has been a bit of a mixture, one minute glorious, the next wet and windy! This edition is packed with news and articles that reflect the easing of the pandemic restrictions and the slight return to some sort of normality as services in the community increase.

One real positive from the pandemic has been the increase in digital services and the ability to get involved in activities online, no matter where they are based. From descriptive performances to art and dance, music to books, and virtual social activities, so much is now available. So, if you are not part of the digital revolution, now really is the time to get on board! The article on AbilityNet will tell you how to get their support with all things technological!

We hope you will find the articles informative and of interest. Please feel free to share Spotlight with other visually impaired people and their carers. Everyone who is newly registered in Essex will receive a copy of Spotlight and they can request their own copy in large print format, memory stick or by email. Unfortunately, we are unable to provide copies in Braille or on cassette.

I hope you will all continue to send your contributions, as your stories and experiences make Spotlight of interest to everyone. You can email articles to services@essexsight.org.uk

Community Support Team by Jonathan Dixon

Normal service resumed? Well, not quite yet, however the community team are still active and available to provide you with assistance, including home visiting. Unfortunately, many of our partners are experiencing delays due to the pandemic, so access to training or clinics may take some time to catch up.

Whilst the Colchester Sight Centre remains open by appointment only, we are going to trial Tuesday as a drop in day, so no appointment will be needed and as long as there is space you can come down to access our services, get information or try some of the equipment we have for demonstration.

I thought I would share details of an interesting study that has been set up by the Sleep Study Team, exploring sleep and circadian rhythm disruption associated with vision impairment.

They have recently created a page on their website where they have put together some tips for better sleep, and some information about good sleep hygiene. Here's a link to the page:

<https://blindsleepstudy.com/information-and-sleep-tips/>

They are also still recruiting blind and partially sighted people, aged 18 and over who live in the UK, to participate in a sleep and health survey.

You can contact them:

By email, at sleepstudy@circadiantherapeutics.com

By phone, on 01865 546582 – please leave a name and number and they will get back to you as soon as possible.

Or, interested individuals can fill in this short online form and one of our researchers will be in touch as soon as possible -

Across the Region – by Carol Massey

It has been great to finally be back in the community and although some of our sight centres and other activities are not yet operating again, as (what was then) British Rail said in the 1970s – “we’re getting there.”

Our monthly sight centre on the first Tuesday of each month, 10am – 1pm at Maldon Library recommenced from July. This is now by appointment only, but it was a good day, fully booked.

Future dates: 3rd August, 7th September, 5th October.

Some more good news is that we will be back in Chelmsford Library from Friday 6th August. For the present, this will be a monthly service being held on the First Friday of each month 10am – 1pm.

Future dates: 6th August, 3rd September, 1st October, 3rd December.

On 23rd July, we were at Doddinghurst Village Hall for a Community Coffee Morning hosted by our friends at Brentwood CVS. It was nice to catch up with old friends and see new faces.

In June we held a pop-up sight centre in South Woodham Ferrers, with the support of the SWF Health and Social Care Group. It was a successful event and we were able to reach people living with sight loss who were not so familiar with Essex Sight and what we do.

We are planning several more events in the coming months. Please phone or check our website and social media for the latest news.

A new advocacy and campaigning group led by blind and partially sighted volunteers is set to launch in Essex later this year. The Essex Sight Loss Council will meet monthly to campaign for positive change and will base its work on three priority areas: Employment and skills, Health and Well-being and Inclusive Communities. If you would like to learn more or apply to become an Essex Sight Loss Council member, visit the Sight Loss Council website: <http://www.sightlosscouncils.org.uk/join-us/>

Goalball Report by Graham Stearn

Last month Goalball Training for the Cambridge Dons Goalball Club finally got back up and running after 15 months or more due to the uncertainty of COVID-19 and being in Lockdown.

I was very concerned about traveling to Cambridge from Essex to attend training but plucked up the courage to go. I was so pleased that I did and completed my first train journey in months after not traveling anywhere apart from local routes. I was unsure about the bus route to the new training venue so had to get a taxi from the station, but hopefully this weekend I will arrive at the station in time to meet up with others and learn the bus route to the venue.

I am now looking forward to the next training session taking place this weekend especially after watching lots of Goalball this past weekend online as the GB Men were competing in the IBSA Goalball European B Championships in Finland the first real major goalball event since before Lockdown.

Unfortunately, the GB Men didn't quite make it to the promotional stages but managed to come 6th after losing in the Quarter Finals.

Essex Library Services : Reading Friends

Do you know someone who would benefit from having a Reading Friend to talk to on the phone, as part of an online group or in person at one of the Essex County libraries?

The Reading Friends scheme brings people together with trained volunteers to read, share stories, meet new friends, and have fun. Taking part can help build connections with others and reduce social isolation.

The scheme uses reading - books, magazines, newspapers or anything else - to start chatting. Working together, the scheme will ensure Reading Friends meets each person's needs and matches their interests. They will set up one-to-one phone calls as well as virtual groups using video call technology and, now that restrictions are lifting, they will be welcoming in-person meetings either one-to-one or in small groups. The scheme will ensure a safe environment for these, adhering to Government and public health guidelines.

Are you If you interested in taking part, telephone Essex Libraries on 0345 603 7628.

Pre-owned Equipment

We have a number of pre-owned electronic video magnifiers and other low vision aids which need re-homing. If you feel you would benefit from one of these items, then please contact our Colchester Resource Centre to arrange a demonstration.

We do not charge for these items, but you would need to arrange collection from Colchester.

We also have a good amount of fitover shades. These are the inexpensive, plastic type that go over your own prescription glasses and are available in various shades of grey and also orange and yellow and are priced at £5 per pair.

Spotlight On

Talking Newspapers

Local Talking Newspapers are a great way to stay informed about the news and what is happening in the area where you live. Anyone who is visually impaired or print disabled can receive this free service which is primarily run by volunteers.

Each month, we will be asking one of the Talking Newspapers in our region to tell us a little bit about themselves and we will then publish the article in Spotlight. We start off in this issue with Chelmsford Talking News who also record every issue of Spotlight, for which we thank them.

If you would like to find out more about any of the Talking Newspapers in Essex, then please contact us for further information.

Pat Wilson of Chelmsford Talking News writes:

Chelmsford Talking Newspaper was started in 1975. Ronald Sturt - the founder member of Talking Newspapers in the UK moved to Chelmsford and together with his wife, Felicity, and daughter Jackie started our Paper.

We were lucky to be a Marconi town so were not short of technical help. The first edition went out in January 1975 with David Ward as Editor, Stuart Rawlings and Barbara Wood as Readers and Robin Stevens as Technician. Seventy five copies were duly recorded and sent out via Royal Mail Freepost to blind and partially sighted listeners in Chelmsford.

We have had many recording locations over the years, but are now in our own studio at the Beryl Platt Centre in Writtle. We were unable to record due to Covid from end of March 2020, but started again in September and now send out to 100 listeners each week.

Technology

AbilityNet

For over 20 years, AbilityNet has been helping older and disabled people to use technology to achieve their goals at home, at work and in education. They do this by providing specialist advice services, free information resources and by helping to build a more accessible digital world.

AbilityNet offers the following free services:

- The free helpline 0800 048 7642 is available 9am-5pm Monday-Friday for technology advice and information.
- A nationwide network of more than 300 carefully selected and vetted AbilityNet tech volunteers who are on hand to offer phone and remote support for groups and individuals. As well as diagnosing and fixing most computer related problems, the tech volunteers can help with sending and receiving emails, using the internet, installing new hardware and software and giving impartial advice on IT equipment and software and home visits when restrictions allow.
- Free online expert resources including factsheets, webinars and My Computer My Way, a unique series of step-by-step guides to the many ways you can adjust your laptop, desktop, tablet or smartphone, including changes to your keyboard and mouse.
- Free training sessions on technology and staying safe online.

In response to the pandemic AbilityNet is running a series of live online events to help share useful information for disabled people and their carers and employers. More details on AbilityNet LIVE, and past recordings are available via the website <https://abilitynet.org.uk/>

Assistive technology for children with vision impairment

Guide Dogs have launched an exciting new initiative to help children and young people with a vision impairment.

Guide Dogs believe children with a vision impairment should have access to technology to develop learning, creativity, life skills, and ultimately, confidence and independence. Their 'Tech for All' scheme is offering a free Apple iPad or iPhone to children and young people (aged 3-18) with visual impairments, to use outside of school.

The devices have excellent accessibility features built-in, and online guides and tutorials are provided to help you get started so you can use it to independently play favourite games, listen to music or audiobooks, watch shows and connect with family and friends in the format that works best for you and to ensure you know how to stay safe online.

The devices are completely free of charge, with the only requirement being proof of vision impairment.

To check eligibility and apply for one of these devices contact Guide dogs at:-

<https://guidedogs-uk.secure.force.com/TechforAll>

If these devices aren't right for your child's needs, Guide Dogs also offer grants for specialist assistive technology devices or software (such as laptops or desktop computers with screen reading software, refreshable braille displays, video magnifiers or enlarged keyboards) that can provide a fully customised experience to meet your child's preferred style of learning and way they get information.

They also provide grants for sensory equipment and toys, to help your child meet important development milestones with a choice of sensory packages with toys carefully selected by experts for different age ranges.

Sight Village

Sight Village will be hosting their first in-person event since 2019. On Tuesday 17th and Wednesday 18th August 2021, a Sight Village Information and Technology event will be taking place at Queen Alexandra College (QAC), Birmingham.

Visitors will once again have the opportunity to find out more about the latest technology, equipment and support services available to people who are blind or partially sighted. Timed entry is applicable, with morning or afternoon sessions available on both days. If you do not arrive within your allocated time slot, unfortunately entry may be refused so the organisers request that you only commit to this event if you are certain that you are available to attend.

Tickets are available online via www.eventbrite.co.uk/o/queen-alexandra-college-12689629940

The British Science Festival

7th – 11th September, Anglia Ruskin University, Chelmsford

This free festival is running in partnership with Anglia Ruskin University and it's set to be one of the most ambitious live events held in the UK since the start of the pandemic. There's an immersive after-dark installation, in-depth discussions with some of the UK's top scientists, and nature-inspired audio experiences in the line-up.

With so many different events, there should be something for everyone. There'll be opportunities to find out how science intersects almost everything in life, from music and fashion, to sport and the environment. This will also be the most sustainable in the festival's history and will shine a spotlight on topics such as the future of energy and transport.

The festival is free, but you will need to book for most events. Check out the festival programme on the British Science Festival website <https://britishsciencefestival.org/> or keep up to date with festival news by following BSF on Twitter @BritishSciFest and #BSF21 and on Facebook @BritishScienceFestival.

The Royal Collection Trust – A Portrait of the Duke of Edinburgh

Amy Stocker, The Access and Inclusion manager for the Royal Collection Trust has advised that their next Descriptive Zoom session will explore a newly released portrait of the Duke of Edinburgh that was painted in the year he retired from public engagements.

The session will start at 2pm on Wednesday 7 September and last about an hour.

If you would like to book a place, please email Amy at amy.stocker@rct.uk.

Dance for Free with Dance Dosti Digital

Dance Dosti digital provides free, accessible dance sessions for blind and partially sighted people.

All sessions are delivered by South Asian dancers and are available in English, Bengali, Gujarati, and Hindi.

Step Change Studios Founder Rashmi Becker, who was recognised with an MBE for services to disabled people in the Queen's Birthday Honours List said: "The idea for Dance Dosti came from seeing the disproportionate impact of the pandemic on people from certain demographics. People from a South Asian background and disabled people have reported greater isolation and inactivity. As an inclusive dance provider, we know the positive difference dance makes to our quality of life, irrespective of age or ability. It benefits both body and mind.

"Our free digital programme is designed as short sessions that can be fitted in to daily life. We want to support people to enjoy learning to dance, to be active at home, and to transition to creative and physical activity outside the home."

Each session is 15-minutes long. Choose from seated and standing dance, and video and audio formats.

To start dancing, sign up for free at: www.dancedosti.com

Dance Dosti is delivered by Step Change Studios in partnership with Metro Blind Sport. The programme is supported by Vision Foundation.
